WOMAN FOUND BADLY BURNED IN WOODLAND

Public appeal as police arrest attempted murder suspect

Gemma Gardner
gemma.gardner@hertsexnews.co.uk

A WOMAN who suffered serious burns in an incident in woodland near a residential area of Harlow is recovering in hospital.

The 30-year-old woman, who has not been named by police, was found at Fesants Croft shortly before 5pm last Thursday.

The following day Essex Police arrested a 33-year-old man on suspicion of attempted murder.

He was taken into custody and questioned before being released on bail until August while inquiries continue.

A spokeswoman for the East of England Ambulance Service Trust said: "We received reports of a fire to which we sent an ambulance officer, a rapid response vehicle, an ambulance crew and the Herts and Essex air ambulance.

"One patient was involved. She was conscious and breathing and was treated for significant injuries to her chest and arms."

The woman was taken to the specialist burns unit at Broomfield Hospital in Chelmsford.

Life-changing

The injuries she sustained have been described as life-changing but not life-threatening and she remains in a serious but stable condition.

■ Detectives are appealing for anyone who witnessed the incident or who has information which can help them with their inquiries to contact them on the non-emergency 101 number or to call Crimestoppers on 0800 555 111.

HUB BID: The GSK site at Pinnacles

£400m science hub proposals to go on show

PLANS to create a £400m science hub in Harlow will be unveiled at a three-day exhibition next week.

Public Health England revealed last year it would be redeveloping the vacant GlaxoSmithKline site at the New Frontiers Science Park in Pinnacles as a global centre of excellence for research, health improvement and protection.

The project, bringing together PHE laboratories at Porton Down and science facilities at Colindale together in a single campus, is set to create up to 10,000 jobs.

Consultation

A public exhibition is being held at Science Alive in Harlow Leisurezone next Thursday and Friday, May 12&13, from 3-8pm and again on Saturday from 10am-1pm.

It will be the first in a series of events staged by PHE as part of a consultation process before it submits a planning application.

People attending will have the opportunity to talk to representatives of PHE working on the science hub programme as well as the architects who will be presenting their proposals.

■ A feedback form will be available at both the event and online at www.gov.uk/phe/harlow.

Quiz night in support of doctors raises £165 for charity

UP TO 100 people attended a quiz night organised by the Junior Doctors Support Group and held at Burnt Mill Snooker and Social Club in Harlow.

Sixteen teams entered the quiz including the Herts and Essex Community Farm, a group of teachers and a team from The Square.

The event raised a total of £165 which will be donated to the Princess Alexandra Hospital's Charity.

Quiz night organiser Adam Cochrane said: "The reason the event was so well attended and the reason that the junior doctors have so much support is that we understand this is really a fight to save our NHS."

"It is important we don't just watch from the sidelines and hope the junior doctors win. We need to do everything we can to support them as they are fighting for us."

THINKING CAPS ON: Some of those who took part in the quiz night

Junior doctor and British medical Association representative Shayan Ahmed thanked everyone for their support and said such events helped to keep doctors strong in their fight against the imposition of new contracts.

The Junior Doctors Support Group is holding a meeting today (Thursday) to plan further activities to support the striking medics.

Families willing to give benefits reform a chance

Charity reports positive response to Universal Credit

William Mata

A FAMILY support charity in Harlow has said many of its clients welcome the introduction of Universal Credit.

Research by the Resolution Foundation, an independent research and policy organisation which reports on living standards in the UK, claimed 2.5 million families could be left worse off following the phased introduction of the all-in-one benefit which, it argues, has serious flaws.

It has published a report which warns that poorer and single parents will be hit the worst by Universal Credit which it claims will leave 1.2m people £41 a week poorer.

But Claire Strudwick, family and volunteer co-ordinator of Home-Start Harlow, which is based at Waterhouse Moor, said: "The families that we support have been quite welcoming towards Universal Credit."

"The general consensus is that it will help as all benefits will come in as one. They feel it could be beneficial."

Home-Start supports parents who are going through challenging times by providing emotional and practical guidance.

Launched nationwide in March, Universal Credit is a monthly payment for people in and out of work which merges benefits and tax credits.

Designed to reduce red tape, the new system will eventually replace six benefits including Jobseekers Allowance, Income Support, Child Tax Credit and Housing Benefit.

A full roll-out is expected by 2021 and at present only newly unemployed people claim the benefit.

Ms Strudwick added: "A couple of concerns were raised about what it was but those who are receiving working tax credits were saying it is beneficial as it helps them budget throughout the whole month."

"In six months we might see some different opinions as it will affect different people in different ways."

The Resolution Foundation said the policy offered poorer single parents little chance of progressing, although it also said 1.7m recipients would be better off by up to £38 per week.

Udaw, the trade union representing shopworkers, described Universal Credit as "a ticking time bomb for many low-paid working families".

Leader John Harknett said: "The Government has allowed severe cost cutting to turn the initial intentions of Universal Credit to simplify benefits and improve incentives to work, which we support in principle, into a real threat to the incomes of low-paid working families."

But Harlow MP Robert Halfon, countered: "Universal Credit is about helping the low paid, ensuring they don't face the poverty trap when they get into work and does everything possible to support them once they are in employment."

He said it will allow households to claim 85 per cent of the childcare expenses they will incur as they move into work while jobseekers can benefit from a work coach who will provide them with guidance even after they find employment.

Pain to gain for runners taking part in marathon

RUNNERS from Harlow pushed through the pain to raise thousands for charity in the Virgin Money London Marathon.

An injury denied Gift Kapswara, of Staple Tye, a personal best but the 40-year-old made it round in five hours 10 minutes and has raised £1,350 for Street Child Africa.

He said: "I found it more difficult than in previous years as I picked up an injury just after Tower Bridge, around half way, and I really struggled with my ankle."

"I ran the first half in two hours and I was well inside my target of four hours and 30 minutes. But after the injury I really slowed."

"If you asked me the day after the run I would say I wouldn't want to do it again but I have since put my name in the ballot for next year. It is a wonderful experience."

Another of the 35,000 to take part in the 26.2 mile race was

ON THE RUN: From the top, Graham Walker, Steve Farrugia and Gift Kapswara

Kristian Randall from Gibson Court, who was nearly forced to give up when he sustained a knee injury at mile 17.

But the 35-year-old hobbled the remaining nine miles to finish in a respectable time of six hours six minutes. To boost Kristian's £300 total visit www.justgiving.com/kristian-randall.

Graham Walker of Arkwrights, raced round the loop to finish at The Mall in a fast time of four hours nine minutes. The 30-year-old has now raised more than £1,600 for Teens Unite. To sponsor him visit: www.justgiving.com/grahamwalker29.

Steve Farrugia, who lives in Hastingwood, completed the distance for Alzheimer's Society in memory of his grandfather, who passed away in 2005.

The 24-year-old, who has now raised £1,036 for the charity, crossed the line in five hours 39 minutes after having to queue up to use the toilet at mile 14.

HAPPY: Jake Christiansen

Giggling Jake is a television star thanks to Spongebob Squarepants

A HARLOW schoolboy has found fame for his tribute to a cartoon sponge who lives in pineapple under the sea.

Six year-old Jake Christiansen was one of 24 winners of the Laugh Your Pants Off competition for which youngsters were asked to impersonate Spongebob Squarepants.

Dad James, 39, said: "He was really happy to win and he was doing the Spongebob laugh all weekend. He always enjoys watching Spongebob and it was his idea to enter the competition."

All 1,200 entrants sent a video to television channel Nickelodeon and clips of the 24 winners were screened over the bank holiday weekend.

As well as having his video of Spongebob's signature giggle broadcast nationally, Roydon Primary School pupil Jake will receive a selection of memorabilia as his prize.

"I think Jake was especially happy to win as it meant he appeared on television," said James.

"We saw the clip three or four times over the weekend. I think he feels quite lucky to have won."

Spongebob Squarepants has been a huge hit for Nickelodeon since launching in 1999 and has spawned 11 series and two feature films.

More reasons than most for joining Race for Life

Jo has 'cancer gene' and lost four close relatives to disease

William Mata

william.mata@hertsessexnews.co.uk

A WOMAN who has lost four close members of her family to cancer will inspire runners taking part in Harlow's Race for Life.

Jo Cotterill, 47, lost her mother Rita, father John, sister Gina and aunt Lillian to the disease. Both she and her older sister Lesley are carriers of the BRCA2 gene, which increases the chance of breast and ovarian cancer, and Lesley is a cancer survivor.

She will share her story with the hundreds of runners taking part in this year's 5km run in Harlow Town Park next Sunday (May 15) before sounding the starting horn.

Jo, who works for Harlow Council, will also be running alongside friends, family members and colleagues in a team called Gina's Gang, named in memory of her sister, who died from cancer last year at the age of 55.

Signed

"Gina signed up to do Race for Life with us last year but she didn't get to come as she was too ill to take part," said Jo. "We showed her the pictures and she loved them."

"It will be different this year. I am honoured to be going on stage, but I am very nervous about it. I don't know how we'll be on the day, but you have to laugh through the tears."

Jo's mum died from ovarian cancer at the age of 49, while her dad was 69 when he lost his battle against pancreatic cancer, the same form of the disease which claimed her sister and her aunt.

Jo is taking part in clinical trials after being tested for the breast cancer gene eight years ago.

"It was something I persisted with and went to the GP about," she said. "Lesley was tested first when she was

Harlow race marks 15th anniversary

THIS year is a milestone for Race For Life organisers in Harlow as it celebrates its 15th anniversary. During the past five years alone it has raised more than £721,000 for cancer research.

The women-only event, which is supported by Tesco, features 5k and 10k courses around the Town Park.

Courtney Culverhouse, event manager for Cancer Research UK, said: "Our events are not competitive, they are not about being fit or fast. Taking part is about being part of a collective force of powerful women of all ages leading the charge against cancer."

The Harlow Race for Life takes place on Sunday, May 15 starting at 11am. The entry fee is £14.99 for adults and £10 for girls under 16. For more information or to sign up to take part, visit www.raceforlife.org or call 0300 123 0770.

diagnosed with breast cancer and then we were tested. We all had the BRCA2 gene. I chose to have some pre-elective surgery to reduce my risk of getting cancer. Every year I get a mammogram and MRI to check me over. I don't look at my testing as a negative, it's a positive. Forewarned is forearmed."

She said that it came as a shock when her sister Gina was diagnosed with pancreatic cancer, adding: "We'd always focused on breast and ovarian cancer and the screening for that."

"Gina was on chemotherapy, but it was so toxic it made her so ill she was hospitalised.

"It was devastating for all of us. It's made me see life is so short, you have to get out there and live it."

Stewards School's class of '66 organising a 50-year reunion

FORMER pupils of Harlow's Stewards School who started there in 1966 are invited to a reunion.

Gary Frost, of Holly Field, Harlow, is planning a 50th anniversary party on September 10.

"We had a 25th anniversary in 1991 and around 60 people came," said Mr Frost, 61. "We want to get as many people to come as we can."

A Facebook page had been launched to spread the word about the reunion, which will be held at Burnt Mill Snooker and Social Club in Edinburgh Way, starting at 7pm.

"Social media and email was only in its infancy at the time of the 1991 event, so contact details are rather sketchy," Mr Frost added.

"Around three-quarters of the people at the last gathering still live in Harlow or surrounding areas, but there were a few who have moved to further away places like Cornwall."

"I am in constant contact with two or three friends and it would be great to see everyone again," he added.

■ If you started Stewards School in Parnall Road in 1966 and want to attend the reunion, email Mr Frost at garyfrost@btinternet.com, call 07548 750638, or search for "50th reunion for the class of 66 at Stewards School" on Facebook to join the group.

Hawks need your support

SIR, What a fantastic day at Harlow Town FC on Sunday when they won their play-off final to gain promotion to the Ryman Premier League.

The game attracted approximately 1,650 people after 800-plus turned out for the semi-final the previous Wednesday. Of these 1,650 it was judged that 1,400 or so were supporting Harlow.

Large crowds turned out for last season's play-off but sadly failed to follow it up by supporting the club fully this season. I urge those people who attended on Sunday not to abandon the team next season. Come back and enjoy the football throughout the season. Let's have at least 500 people at every match.

If the club can carry on the success with the right support, they could be playing in the football league by 2020. How about that, Harlow Town FC a football league club just like our near neighbours in Stevenage.

I know there are transport issues getting to the ground but hopefully the club will look into dealing with that issue if the demand is there. So come down in August and follow the Hawks as they embark on a new campaign to push for conference football.

Craig Messenger
Shawbridge, Harlow

UK will pay a heavy price

SIR, Stan Newens is correct when he says EU laws only account for 13.2 per cent of legislation passed by Parliament (Letters, April 21). However, what he fails to mention are the EU regulations that do not require an Act of Parliament.

Taken together, EU regulations and EU legislation account for around 65 per cent of the laws which affect our lives.

It seems that both sides in the referendum debate selectively produce figures to justify their positions. It's far from easy to get an accurate picture.

In my view, the issues are really complex so let me attempt to simplify them with an analogy

READER'S PHOTO

■ THIS photo was taken by Mary Tassie Miller, of Spencers Croft, Harlow, from the churchyard at St Mary-at-Latton Church looking across to the Solo Flight sculpture on First Avenue. "The sun was shining but there was a black cloud behind the statue," she writes. "The sun was reflecting so brightly off the sculpture that it really stood out and looked as if it had come to life and was dancing."

■ If you have a photo you have taken in or around Harlow which you would like to see featured in the Star, email a high resolution copy in JPEG format, along with a brief description of where and when it was taken, to star@hertsessexnews.co.uk. Please include your name and address.

to the Euro. If we had joined the Euro as Tony Blair and many business leaders wanted and were instead voting to either stay in or leave the Euro, there would be many voices on the side of staying in, saying costs will go up, holidays will be dearer, the pound will be unworkable and too insignificant as a stand-alone currency. These arguments would greatly sap our nation's confidence.

But whatever the merits or demerits of these arguments, we are better off out of the Euro. Why? Because the Euro continually lurches from crisis to crisis. The Euro project simply doesn't work as the poor people of Greece have found to their cost.

Addressing the fault lines in the Euro seems to require ever closer political union for the 19 countries signed up to it. So already we have the prospect of a two-tier Europe, with nine countries outside of the Euro (including Britain if we stay in the EU) in the second tier. So much for Britain's influence if we remain in the EU.

The EU is an idea whose time has passed. It is uncompetitive, unaccountable and undemocratic. For the past 20 years the European Court of Auditors, with an annual budget of £130m, has been unable to produce satisfactory audit reports for the EU because of institutional fraud and incompetence. It has shown itself to be beyond reform, as David Cameron's recent ineffectual efforts at treaty change testify.

As self-serving and as bureaucratic as the EU is, it won't stay static. The worst is yet to come. Turkey is pushing hard for membership of the EU and free access to Europe for its 80m citizens.

A huge wave of Turkish immigration will hit Britain in the next 10 years on top of existing EU migrant numbers, putting further enormous pressure on jobs and services and homes.

Is this chaotic overcrowding what we want for our children and grandchildren? No. Let us regain our courage and confidence and determine our own destiny. If we vote to remain in the EU we give away our sovereignty and our freedom, we give away our nation.

We will pay a very heavy price indeed if we vote to stay in.

Treat doctors with respect

SIR, One year ago I had an operation to replace both my hips. It was performed in our local hospital on the National Health Service.

I am so grateful for the excellent treatment I received. I feel that doctors have the best interests of the NHS at heart and are best able to know the effect of proposed changes. I also think doctors deserve to be treated with respect.

It's time for Jeremy Hunt to be moved to somewhere where he'll do less harm. The man is arrogant and shows little respect for anyone so I'm at a loss to suggest what he might be given to do. But anything would be better than where he is at present.

David Cameron talks of caring for the NHS but he would not be keeping Mr Hunt in office after all his failures if he did care.

The British Medical Association and the junior doctors have the full support of the public and deservedly so. I hope that as many people as possible will write to their MP to show their concern.

Pat Crossland

Future of the town centre

SIR, Several letters were published last week about the future of West Gate. Could I point out that the person who wanted the town centre to have more coffee shops and to be more like Covent Garden was in fact the local MP and not me.

I feel we need more safe public space but agree that we need a balance of stores with good public access and not just coffee shops.

Our MP is wrong about not having car parks as we need to provide choice and opportunity for all types of transport, including safe cycling.

We're hoping the council will set up a number of listening events over the summer to engage with all parts of the town centre community.

These events should influence how we can remodel the centre, not only to provide a shopping experience but also provide leisure/pleasure which should build on the town's culture, art and heritage.

The debate will continue but it does show how one person's view isn't always in line with others.

Cllr Tony Durcan
Rundells, Harlow

Timescale for replacement

SIR, Your correspondent Kevin Forbes misses the point when referring to the proposal to demolish Gate House (Letters, April 28).

Whilst I can appreciate his comments regarding the omission of a reference to Harlow Development Corporation in the original article, the real point is surely what is going to take its place and when.

It seems to me that applying for permission to demolish a sound building before we have a published and accepted plan for replacement, and a timescale for doing it, is putting the cart before the horse.

The only thing that we do know with any certainty is that Harlow Council has little control over these matters; it's all in the hands of the developers.

It would help to get Harlow residents outside if the developers and the council organised a public consultation and exhibition before proceeding with demolition.

I for one would hate to see these buildings demolished without a firm and timely commitment to an acceptable replacement. It's what the development corporation would have done.

Bay numbers are not clear

SIR, I am responding to the comment made by your correspondent who said they wondered if a 78-year-old lady should be driving if she cannot see if a parking bay number is a one or seven (Letters, April 21).

What an idiotic thing to say and so rude. The writer obviously has no respect for their elders and certainly has no common sense.

It is the responsibility of Smart Parking to ensure the bay numbers are clearly marked. It is not down to the driver to guess the number.

Maybe your correspondent should focus on the fact that young and old drivers are being fined because the bay numbers aren't clearly marked instead of suggesting that the elderly shouldn't be driving.

A FATHER-of-four is pedalling into Austria on his cycle ride from Harlow to Turkey.

Mehmet Cakmak, 50, who is the owner of Café Pizzeria, aims to raise £5,000 for St Clare Hospice in the 3,000-mile ride from Harlow to his hometown of Ankara.

His daughter Clare Cam, who manages the Bush Fair eatery, said: "He is doing really well and the thought of donations keeps him motivated.

"He did not realise how difficult it was going to be. He enjoyed passing through the Netherlands as it is a cycling paradise but he has faced mountains in Germany and it has been snowing.

"People have been really supportive and one campsite allowed him to stay for free."

Mr Cakmak departed from Harlow Hub and Spoke with a convoy of 20 riders. He has passed Stuttgart in Germany to approach the fourth of seven countries he will cycle through during the ride.

He hopes to finish before June and has already raised £1,970. To sponsor him visit www.justgiving.com/Mehmet-Cakmak.

Trust hailed by PM despite job cuts over funds

David Cameron quotes Burnt Mill CEO in Parliament

Gemma Gardner

gemma.gardner@hertssexnews.co.uk

BURNT Mill Academy Trust has been highlighted by David Cameron as shining examples of the academy system despite making staff redundant.

The Prime Minister came under fire from Labour leader Jeremy Corbyn in Parliament over his plans to force all schools to become academies.

During Prime Minister's Questions last week Mr Cameron defended himself saying: "May I quote from the words of the head of the Burnt Mill Academy Trust in Harlow, Helena Mills.

"Ms Mills said: 'I am one of the first to admit that I looked upon the academy system with scepticism, but over the years I have come to the conclusion that this is the only way forward'."

The Prime Minister did not mention that BMAT is currently making a large number of support staff redundant.

Parents are furious at the move and have criticised the super-head for giving some pupils free horse riding lessons while sacking TAs.

Another mum, whose nine-year-old daughter and 14-year-old son both go to BMAT schools, told reporters: "While all these people are losing their jobs the school are still paying for riding lessons for some of the pupils.

PRAISED: BMAT chief executive Helena Mills

"It's more important for the kids to have the right support with their learning in school than having riding lessons."

In February BMAT - which runs Burnt Mill Academy in First Avenue, Harlow, Forest Hall in Stansted, and primary schools Little Parndon Primary School, Cooks Spinney Academy, Freshwaters Academy, and Roydon Primary School - announced that more than 100 positions were under threat.

Jobs at risk include teaching assistants, administrators, learning mentors, site managers, cleaners and midday assistants.

Union Eastern has launched a petition to save staff adding that the cuts would "put the quality of children's education at risk".

Union rep Emma Aboubaker said: "We are dismayed and concerned at the huge cuts planned.

"Any cuts will put the quality of children's education at risk as well as have a big impact on the local community and economy."

Ms Mills has blamed the cuts on rises in National Insurance, pension contributions and the unfunded cost of living increase.

She said: "We know that we have to work within the budget we have which may not have been cut but in real terms is worth less.

"It is unfortunate for the community because many people potentially losing positions are residents of Harlow.

"We want to be able to continue to offer our extensive enrichment opportunities so children can take part in horse riding, musical tuition and other experiences at no additional cost to parents."

Some members of staff whose jobs are under threat have been offered alternative employment on lower salaries.

A BMAT spokeswoman yesterday said: "Some roles are being reassigned and we also expect that some individuals will take voluntary redundancy."

All the main teachers' unions, the ATL, NUT and NASUWT are strongly opposed to the move, claiming the Government has failed to produce any evidence that turning schools into academies raises standards.

IT'S A SNIP: Harlow Council chairman Tony Hall performed the opening ceremony by, cutting the ribbon

New store offers customers home comforts

A NEW store selling a wide range of homeware products has opened in Harlow.

HomeSense at the Queensgate Centre off Edinburgh Way opened its doors to the public for the first time on Thursday.

Harlow Council chairman Tony Hall was handed a pair of giant scissors to perform the ribbon cutting ceremony.

The discount store stocks items for every room of the home, including kitchen and gourmet cookware, furniture and lighting, decorative items, wall art, bedding and bathroom accessories, gifts and seasonal décor.

Frequent deliveries to store will ensure thousands of new items each week.

A HomeSense spokesman said:

JOIN THE QUEUE: Eager shoppers wait for the doors to open

"We are delighted to be opening our first store in Harlow, which will be our 41st in the UK.

"Our other stores have rapidly developed a loyal following amongst savvy shoppers who enjoy seeking out interesting finds for their homes, so we're really excited to be bringing our unique homeware concept to Harlow. Shoppers will be able to pop in store for a browse and discover some stylish pieces for their home at a fantastic price."

Thousands of knives 'taken off the streets'

Police pleased by results success of amnesty

Ken Morley

star@hertsessexnews.co.uk

THOUSANDS of weapons including BB guns, pellet guns and throwing stars have been handed in as part of a knife amnesty campaign across Essex.

Bins were installed at five locations across the county when the initiative was launched in January last year.

A total of 6,897 weapons were handed in during the campaign, which was supported by weapons awareness charity Only Cowards Carry.

Chief Superintendent Ewen Wilson, of Essex Police, said: "A substantial number of lethal weapons have already been taken off our streets through this initiative.

"If amnesties persuade even one person to think twice about carrying a knife and to get rid of it, then they are a valuable tool in making Essex an even safer county.

"They also provide a way for law-abiding members of the public to get rid of knives they no longer need in a way that guarantees they will never end up in the wrong hands."

The blades that were handed in have been sent to the British Ironwork Centre, which is transforming weapons collected from across the country into an angel sculpture as part of its Save a Life,

Surrender Your Knife project.

The Knife Angel statue will stand as a monument against violence.

"The chances of most of us being a victim of knife crime are very low, just a one in 1,515 chance," added Chief Superintendent Wilson.

"But even one victim is too many and we will continue to take a tough stance on dealing with those caught carrying or using knives, and working with our partners to help people understand that carrying a knife is not the answer to any problem.

"However, the public also have a vital role in helping us, as the more information we have, the easier it is for us to stop these crimes from happening."

Caroline Shearer, of Only Cowards Carry, said: "We are very proud that our amnesty bins have been a great success. Working alongside Essex Police, the Police and Crime Commissioner for Essex and local councils, we have managed to take thousands of weapons off the streets.

"However, this is not the end. It is the beginning of safer communities. We all have a responsibility to protect our towns, our streets, our homes, our neighbours, our colleagues and especially our families."

CCTV of pensioner's purse theft suspects

CCTV images of two people wanted for questioning by police investigating the theft of a purse from an elderly woman in Harlow have been released.

The 92-year-old victim was shopping in the Poundland store in the Harvey Centre when the theft took place.

The purse, containing a three-figure sum of cash, was stolen at 10.30am on Friday March 18.

Anyone with any information about the theft or who knows the identity of the two men in the CCTV images is asked to contact PC Danny Wheeler at Harlow police station on the non-emergency 101 number.

Saira to raise cash for hospice by holding pop-up restaurant

EXCITED:
Saira
Hamilton

MASTERCHEF finalist Saira Hamilton will be hosting a pop-up restaurant to raise funds for St Clare Hospice.

Saira, who grew up in Harlow and lives in Sawbridgeworth, has chosen the hospice as her local charity of the year.

Her Midsummer with Saira event will be held on Friday, June 17 at Manuden Village Hall with diners enjoying award-winning Bengali inspired cuisine.

"St Clare gives such amazing care to people and their loved ones when they are going through one of life's hardest journeys," said Saira. "The staff provide incredible care to each and every person who comes through their doors."

"St Clare is such a happy and uplifting place. We are just so lucky to have this facility on our doorstep and for the care to be free of charge whenever we may need it."

Fantastic

She added: "I hope the midsummer pop-up restaurant will be a success and am excited to share my food with my local community while raising vital funds for this fantastic charity. I have also chosen to support St Clare Hospice as my local charity of the year and will be holding more events in 2016."

St Clare community fundraiser Sue Fishpool, who will be supporting Saira with the event, said: "We are so excited that Saira is hosting this exclusive event for us. It's not every day you get the opportunity to eat a meal cooked by a MasterChef finalist."

"Saira is a fantastic supporter of St Clare and we are delighted that she has chosen to fundraise for us throughout the year."

Tickets for the event, which includes a welcome drink, three-course meal, and live entertainment from Chris Lord and her Blues Express, cost £35 and are on sale now from the St Clare Hospice website at stclarehospice.org.uk/event/midsummer-with-saira/.

Man struck with bike

A MAN suffered serious facial injuries after he was assaulted and struck with a bicycle.

Police were called to a disturbance in Copshall Close, Harlow, at 4pm on Tuesday.

The 35-year-old victim was taken to hospital while a 30-year-old woman was arrested on suspicion of causing grievous bodily harm.

Police have asked for anyone who was in the area around the time of the incident or who has information about what happened to contact PC Dawn Shearing at Harlow police station on the non-emergency 101 number.

County's police dogs to receive service medals

THE Essex Police force will be the first in the country to honour its retired dogs.

The canine coppers who served with the Essex Dog Unit will receive medals engraved with dates of their service during ceremonies which will be held on a regular basis.

Dog handler Paul Nicholls came up with the idea after installing a plaque dedicated to the memory of police dogs at the force's headquarters in Chelmsford.

Since then he has been working with the dog unit, the Essex Police Federation and the Essex Retired Police Dogs Fund to extend the idea to individual animals.

He said: "Our police dogs work incredibly hard and support their police officer colleagues throughout their career. It seems only right their loyal, brave and unfaltering service be recognised."

"It's important too that we don't forget those dogs who have died during service so we'll be presenting medals in their memory to the handlers they partnered."

The medals, which are being paid for by Essex Police Federation, will be presented in a wooden box etched with the name of the dog. The first ceremony will be held in June.

Inspector Brad Dickel, of the dog unit, added: "It is only right that every retiring police dog receives recognition for their unfaltering bravery and dedication."

Former student back at college for radio show

New Statesman editor compares notes

William Mata

william.mata@hertsexnews.co.uk

A FORMER student of Harlow College returned to his old stomping ground to talk about the pressures facing young people.

Jason Cowley is now the editor of political magazine New Statesman and his discussion with students was recorded for broadcast on the BBC Radio 4 programme Analysis.

He said: "I've come back to make a programme for the BBC, having been at Latton Bush School and then Harlow College.

Different

"In the 1970s and early 1980s only about eight per cent of the population went to university, so when I was at school there wasn't the expectation that you were being prepared for higher education."

Mr Cowley said his experiences of the educational system were quite different to what young people feel is expected from them today. The programme explored pressures today's youngsters are under with technology influencing opinion and the economy shaping the opportunities available.

Mr Cowley also set out to see if the social repair theory, where problems are solved between generations, is still relevant today.

"Talking to the students here I was struck by their maturity but also their realism and the sense of the pressures under which they're operating," he said.

"I'm also impressed with how the college has been transformed, with its focus on academic attainment, how good its results are and what a serious place it now is."

A-level student Ellie Borrow, 18, said: "It was interesting because we got to hear from a different generation."

"There's more pressure on young people to do well than in previous generations, with academic success, finding a good job and getting on the housing ladder our main priorities."

LET US SPRAY: Year One pupils Charlie Wilson and Aksahaya Saseekaren water the seeds

Growing seeds is rocket science for pupils

A HARLOW primary school is set to receive a pack of seeds that has spent months on board the International Space Station.

Pemberley Academy, in Hodings Road, is one of thousands of UK schools which will be sent a packet of 100 'space' seeds which will be grown alongside others that have not left the planet.

Pupils will measure the difference in the rate of growth between the two but will not know which packet is which until the results are harvested by the RHS Campaign for School Gardening, which has organised the project.

Year 1 teacher Natasha Reynolds said: "The children are all excited to be taking part in the live rocket science experiment."

"The event is really an amazing way of teaching them to think more scientifically."

The purpose of the experiment is to encourage pupils to think about how we can maintain human life on another planet.

Miss Reynolds added: "It may even inspire our students to find out more about careers in science including horticulture, botany and the space industry."

Academy hands out its annual rewards

STUDENTS at one of Harlow's secondary schools were rewarded for their hard work during a prizegiving evening.

Stewards Academy, in Parnall Road, presented 170 students with certificates in recognition of their contribution to school life and for academic excellence.

Guest of honour Suzanne Jude, head of strategy at Raytheon UK, gave a speech in which she spoke about the importance mentors can have on young people.

The Governor's Prize for Citizenship went to Becky Dodd, while Alfie Babb was presented with the Contribution to the Life of the School award. Nine students who finished top of the class in last summer's GCSE results were also recognised.

Headteacher Rhonda Murthar said: "Our presentation is always a special occasion and this year was certainly no exception."

Who's who in crime commissioner poll

The candidates seeking your vote for police role

VOTERS in Harlow get the chance to elect a new Police and Crime Commissioner for Essex when they go to the polls today (Thursday).

As well as casting votes in the local council elections, they will also have the choice of five candidates hoping to succeed the county's current PCC Nick Alston, who has decided not to stand again.

The role of Police and Crime Commissioner was introduced in 2012 to replace local police authorities. The PCC is responsible for holding the Chief Constable and police force to account on the public's behalf.

They oversee how crime is tackled in their area, producing a plan to set priorities and decide how the force's budget will be spent. They also have the power to appoint and dismiss chief constables.

The supplementary vote system is used to elect PCCs, so voters can place a cross beside the names of two candidates on the ballot paper to indicate their first and second preferences. The candidates are:

Roger Hirst Conservative

Mr Hirst is married and has lived in Brentwood for 16 years. He has more than 30 years' experience as a financial analyst at British, European and American banks. He has served as both a district and county councillor.

He lists his priorities as cracking down on anti-social behaviour, being tough on domestic violence, reversing the trend in serious violent crime, tackling gangs and organised crime, and making the police more local, visible and accessible to ensure crime prevention is based in the community and that victims come first.

"For me, safe and secure communities are the bedrock on which we build prosperity and well-being," he says. "As PCC, I will put the needs of local residents first."

"I will ensure that there will be no reduction in police officer numbers over my term in office. I will double the size of the Special Constabulary so there is a special constable in every town and village in Essex."

Chris Vince Labour

Mr Vince was born and raised in Chelmsford and is a secondary school mathematics teacher. He has taught at schools in Brentwood, Southend and Rochford and has experience in working with the public and managing colleagues, including sitting on interview panels.

"Since 2010 we've seen cuts of over 600 frontline police officers and PCSO numbers decimated across Essex," he says. "This means that officers and police staff are stretched and in danger of burning themselves out. I want to work with the Police Federation, the staff unions, the Chief Constable, the officers and staff themselves to ensure they are supported to do their jobs."

"I'll do what I can to protect frontline policing in our county as well as ensuring we are as efficient and as effective as possible in tackling important issues like domestic violence and knife crime."

"I also want to focus on crime prevention, working with local school and community groups to prevent crime as well as having police officers working in those local communities."

ROGER HIRST

CHRIS VINCE

KEVIN MCNAMARA

BOB SPINK

MARTIN TERRY

Kevin McNamara Liberal Democrats

Mr McNamara is on a career sabbatical to fight this election. He was born in Ilford and moved to Thurrock in 2007. He has certification in child protection and was involved in forming a community partnership reducing hate crime during his time as a student at University of Kent.

"Essex Police is failing residents by not dealing properly with issues of violence, domestic abuse and cybercrime," he says. "It is short of money to deal with these issues following decades of underfunding by Conservatives nationally and those in Essex who set police budgets. Essex's next police and crime commissioner must fix these issues."

"If elected I will listen to the concerns of local communities and the victims of crime when setting priorities for Essex, tackle issues that have not been resourced properly such as the 85 incidents of domestic abuse in Essex every single day, work with councils and other Essex agencies so our limited resources go further, tackle the root causes of crime and work with partners across UK and EU to share crime information."

Bob Spink UKIP

Mr Spink has lived in Essex for almost 30 years. He has served as MP for Castle Point in Essex for two terms between 1992 and 2010 and has been a police authority member and police cells visitor.

"We need a tough police commissioner with relevant experience," he says. "A Conservative can't fight Conservative policies on immigration and police cuts."

"My policies are bobbies on the beat, police stations opened, zero tolerance and controlled immigration. All candidates are decent people but they lack relevant experience."

Mr Spink said English Democrats party leader Robin Tilbrook endorsed him as "the most able and experienced candidate".

Martin Terry Independent

Mr Terry lives in Southend and is married with two children. He has served a councillor for 16 years and portfolio holder for public protection.

"I was not selected by a political party to do this, I selected myself at my own expense because police cuts are a threat to civilized society," he says.

"My priorities are to relentlessly pursue more funding for Essex Police, take a zero tolerance approach to policing in Essex, deliver more visible street policing, put victims at the centre of the criminal justice system, give the public more opportunities to have a say about policing, protect local policing by standing up for officers and Essex Police and ensure the public receive the highest possible standard of service."

Company spokeswoman Sally Payne said: "This is a truly amazing amount. It shows the high level of appreciation of the services of this charity in our local community and we've been pleased to help."

Kerry Cunnane, the charity's fundraising manager for Essex and Herts, said: "It really will make a difference to the lives of people affected by cancer and we just want to say thank you."

Flight of the sun bird

HERE at Star Rangers we have been following the journey of a solar-powered experimental aircraft as it attempts a record-breaking flight around the world.

Solar Impulse 2 is fitted with solar panels to convert the sun's rays into energy which is then used to power the aircraft's motors.

It has successfully completed the latest leg of its journey after flying for three days across the Pacific Ocean.

The aircraft took off from Hawaii and, travelling at an average speed of 40.4 miles per hour, landed in northern California more than 60 hours later.

During the journey it flew over the world-famous Golden Gate Bridge in San Francisco (pictured above).

It will now continue its journey by flying across the United States to New York and then eventually on to Europe before finally returning to Abu Dhabi on the Middle East from where it started its trip back in March of last year.

Two pilots - Bertrand Piccard and André Borschberg - are taking it in turns to fly the plane on its journey. They are being supported by a team of about 90 engineers, technicians and mission controllers.

Pilot Piccard said: "The primary purpose of this adventure is to demonstrate that modern clean technologies can achieve the impossible and encourage everyone to use these same energy-efficient solutions on the ground in their daily lives for mobility, construction, lighting, heating, cooling and more."

Voices of girl power

Al over the world women really are second class citizens and it is something worth fighting for, says Rebecca Biscuit.

Alongside co-star Louise Mothersole, the entertainer will perform in a show that asks: What happens when women are given one hour a day to think what it is to be a woman?

The answer is the comedy, theatre, singing and cabaret concoction that is Women's Hour - a production coming to Harlow Playhouse on Thursday, May 26.

The outspoken pair, both 28, have already won critical acclaim for their performances that sold out several nights of the Edinburgh Fringe Festival when it premiered last year.

Now they are on the road and come to Harlow in the middle of a nationwide tour.

Billed as 'feminist theatre for all genders', Women's Hour was hailed as one of the top five shows of Edinburgh Fringe 2015 by the Daily Telegraph.

But despite the similar name it is a million miles away from Woman's Hour on BBC Radio 4 and Louise is keen to point out this is a performance that means business.

"It started off as a cabaret show and there is still an element of that," she said.

"The show is mostly scripted, but we always talk to the audience and you can never plan for that. We love to do some impromptu stuff.

"But there are some more personal bits and lots of comedy and spoken word. It is fast paced and it tries to say all there is to say about women in one hour which is of course impossible!"

On Radio 4's Woman's Hour, Rebecca said: "We have taken inspiration from it and we use some of the genuine transcripts from it as some of our material."

Louise and Rebecca have been friends for 10 years and are founders and only members of the crudely-named Sh!t Theatre. Audiences are unsurprisingly warned to expect strong language and also graphic images.

But despite the strong content and feminist theme, Rebecca said they have seen a wide range of demographics represented in the audiences.

"We have had a complete mixture of genders and age groups come," she said.

"We have seen people from the age of 12 to 80 come along and I don't think feminism is just for one group of people or another."

Harlow Playhouse has suggested this might be one for the over-18s, but Rebecca said youngsters have been keen to get involved with the feminist debate.

Louise said: "A lot of the show is about the media's portrayal of women and the show is sadly real and true. We are being bombarded with unhelpful stuff all the time.

"It has been overwhelmingly well reviewed, but we have seen some funny negative ones over the years talking about how we are little girls... We can ignore that and focus on doing what we enjoy."

GLAM rock band The Rubettes are back with three of the four original members reformed for a national tour.

Front man Alan Williams is back at the helm of the pop quartet who are best known for their 1974 hit Sugar Baby Love, which was a number one single.

Under the banner The Rubettes featuring Alan Williams the four will perform at Harlow Playhouse on Friday, May 6.

"We will tell some anecdotes play some lesser known songs and play all the hits," said 67-year-old Alan.

"This is our first solo tour for some time as normally we are part of a 70s show. It is all nostalgia and we have had a great reaction from the fans, most of whom can remember us from the first time round."

Alan said he still enjoys playing their signature hit after all these years, but their back catalogue also contains top 10 singles

Juke Box Jive, I Can Do It and Baby I Know.

"It is a bit of a swansong for us," he added. "We are all in our '60s and we're not sure how long we can keep going, but for now we're following in the footsteps of Mick Jagger."

The Rubettes featuring Alan Williams will perform at Harlow Playhouse on Friday, May 6.

Tickets start from £18.50. Visit www.playhouseharlow.com or call (01279) 431945.

Who do you idolise?

EW tribute bands can boast a bona fide rock star as their front-man, but The Total Who Show has just that in Johnny Warman.

Having worked with Ringo Starr, Phil Collins and Peter Gabriel in his time the singer-songwriter from Loughton has seen it all.

However, it is his love for Pete Townshend and co that has inspired him to spend the last few years playing hits such as Magic Bus, My Generation and Pinball Wizard around the country.

The Total Who Show will be performed at Harlow Playhouse on Saturday, May 7.

"It is a brilliant show," said Johnny, who released three LPs and a string of singles in the 1970s and 80s.

"I don't think Pete Townshend gets the credit he deserves as a musician or as a songwriter. So much of his music has been heard and has been inspirational.

"We do all the hits and tell a few fun stories about how the songs came about. But we make sure that the audience get their money's worth and we play as much as we can. It's quite full on.

"But we are not big headed and we don't get carried away. We don't walk away thinking this was our music.

The father of two added: "We don't smash up the stage and swing microphones around.

"Also we don't try and pretend to be the band and that is something we stay well clear of, we only ever perform as ourselves."

As a prolific songwriter Johnny was able to count on famous names to help him out in the studio, including having Peter Gabriel on backing vocals for his second solo album Walking into Mirrors.

Other LP releases Hour Glass and From the Jungle to New Horizons were chart successes overseas, but Johnny found the UK harder nut to crack and never got the audience his talents deserved.

But throughout a diverse and whirlwind career, that has also seen him co-compose songs for rock band Asia, his love for The Who has been a constant.

"I made three albums and I had success over the world, notably in Australia, but I could not get a hit in my own country," he said.

For 10 years he has headed up Johnny Warman's Magic Bus, a group who also perform The Mods and Rockers Show, the Four Bills Soul Show and The British Invasion Show.

In each of the carnations he is joined by backing band Richard Willoughby on drums, Steve Tilling, who plays bass, keyboard player Andy Neve and Phil Spalding on guitar.

Between them the band have toured with Elton John, David Bowie, Bruce Springsteen and Foo Fighters in their time.

Despite his own 1980s success Johnny does not dwell on what he achieved or what could have been but is proud to play around three shows a month to celebrate The Who.

■ The Total Who Show will be performed at Harlow Playhouse on Saturday, May 7. Tickets cost from £15.50. For bookings and more information visit, www.playhouseharlow.com or call (01279) 431945.

Dark side of music star

I Saw The Light

DRAMA: (15) 123 minutes
Director: Marc Abraham
Starring: Tom Hiddleston, Elizabeth Olsen, Bradley Whitford, Cherry Jones, Maddie Hasson, Wrenn Schmidt

DARK STAR: Tom Hiddleston plays troubled country and western singer Hank Williams in I Saw The Light, out at cinemas this Friday

Tom Hiddleston and Elizabeth Olsen take time out from the Marvel Cinematic Universe for a very different big screen outing that doesn't involve super powers of any sort.

Unless you count a propensity for taking huge amounts of drink and drugs.

I Saw The Light looks at the life of country music star Hank Williams whose rise and fall was a precursor to many celebrities of more recent times. He lived the rock and roll life before it became a cliché. Before Jim and Jimi, before Sid and Kurt, before Janis and Amy, Hank did the whole live-fast-die-young thing; like them, he was a huge talent who didn't make it out of his twenties.

Hiddleston dons Stetson and guitar to play Williams, the who had more than 30 hits in a six-year period after World War Two, shifting upwards of 11 million records along the way.

Despite the hits and the adulation, there was a dark side to Williams. Alcoholism, drug abuse and infidelity undermined both his career and his marriage before ultimately causing him chronic health problems.

In I Saw The Light, we first meet Hiddleston's Williams when he's already an established musician on the verge of hitting a wider audience. In the opening scenes, we see him marry Audrey (Elizabeth Olsen), play a gig and get in a scrap, then he's driven to his regular radio show by his mother (Cherry Jones) the morning after while nursing a horrendous hangover. These scenes encapsulate the main influences and tensions in his life; his wife, his mother, his music and alcohol, which will eventually tear him in different directions.

With that established, we see Williams achieve – through sheer bloody-mindedness as much as talent – his dream of playing the Grand Ole Opry and get mainstream success with songs like Heartsick, Your Cheatin' Heart and I'm So Lonesome I Could Cry.

Despite the success he gets, Williams is a troubled soul whose addictions and behaviour drive those closest to him away. His drinking, abuse of prescription drugs and womanising numb his pain (physical and psychological) but only briefly, and his health suffers over time.

Tom Hiddleston is far from the obvious choice to play a legendary country and western singer, but he pulls it off brilliantly, perfecting his southern drawl and capturing Williams' mixture of charm and insecurity well. Elizabeth Olsen is impressive too as his beleaguered wife Audrey.

The problem with I Saw The Light is it never hits the highs and lows of Williams' life and career. It's one-tone and insipid when it should be taking us through the darkness of Williams' damaged psyche.

Compare it to Johnny Cash biopic Walk The Line and it comes out very poorly which is a shame because there's a great film to be made about Hank Williams. Unfortunately, this isn't it.

FACING UP: Tom Hiddleston as Hank Williams and Bradley Whitford as Fred Rose

BEST FILMS OUT NOW with chillidogmovies.blogspot.co.uk

Captain America: Civil War (12A)

Marvel Studios' latest blockbuster manages to throw in a whole bunch of heroes (including Spider-Man and Black Panther), spectacular action sequences and a convoluted, globe-trotting storyline and still be a smart, funny and intimate story that keeps its characters central to everything. Very impressive and a must for comic book fans.

The Jungle Book (PG)

Jon Favreau's take on Rudyard Kipling's much-loved story sees

CGI to the fore but the film doesn't suffer as a result. The animals and environments might be computer-generated, but this is an involving and enjoyable version of Mowgli the man cub's encounters with Shere Khan, Kaa, Bagheera and Baloo. Idris Elba, Ben Kingsley, Scarlett Johansson and Bill Murray provide the voices.

Eye In The Sky (15)

The detached, 'remote control' nature of modern warfare is addressed in Gavin Hood's compelling thriller in which a high-value terrorist is targeted in Kenya and a decision has to be made about killing him via a drone strike. The political and moral machinations ratchet up the tension with Helen Mirren, Alan Rickman, Iain Glen and Aaron Paul leading an impressive cast.

Eddie The Eagle (PG)

If it's feelgood you're after, this is the film for you, a British comedy drama about a real-life underdog. Taron Egerton plays the wannabe Olympic ski-jumper whose desire to compete is only matched by his ineptitude at his chosen sport. He teams up with legendary hard-talking, hard-drinking American coach Bronson Peary (Hugh Jackman) who helps Eddie realise his dream.

Nothing like a bit of ChipLit!

DESPITE the opinions of many, I am still a believer that social media can be a force for good. A chance Twitter conversation with the author Clare Mackintosh, who I had seen on BBC Breakfast news talking about her career change from police officer to author, led to my being invited to appear as part of a stellar line up at the Chipping Norton Literary Festival this year.

The festival, dubbed ChipLitFest, took place over four days in April in the beautiful Cotswold market town of the same name.

With names such as Joanne Harris, Fay Weldon, Brian Blessed, Ben Miller, Prue Leith and others on the bill, it was a no-brainer when festival director Jenny Dee asked me if I would like to be involved.

For people who have visited the town, you will know that it is a lovely-looking place, with all the honey-coloured stone houses and cobbles that you would expect to find in such a setting.

First stop was the town hall for my cooking demonstration. I prepared dishes from my cookbooks (we covered chilli mojito, dhal bora, baked ginger cheesecake and pumpkin and prawn curry) for a really delightful audience.

I always enjoy live cooking demonstrations, but there are some occasions where everything falls into place; the audience laugh at my jokes, the dishes timings work perfectly, I don't forget to include all the important things I'd wanted to say, I have audience participation, in short everything works perfectly. This was one of those occasions.

After signing books and chatting awhile, I had to quickly pack up and transport 10 platters of canapés over to the theatre at the other end of town.

This was for an event being run by one of the main sponsors of the event, Clay's independent publishers. The real benefit for me of being asked to cater for this event was that I also got to be present during their session,

SAIRA
with Masterchef
semi-finalist Saira Hamilton which was a guide to independent publishing.

Rebecca and Georgina from Clay's ran the session and even though I have recently published my three cookbooks myself, I realised there was a huge amount I didn't know. I also realised there was a lot I could have done differently, but we can all be wiser after the event can't we?

I really enjoyed meeting the diverse group of authors and would-be authors in the audience who had a wide range of books 'in them', from humorous poetry about cats to novels set in the Wild West to biographies.

The main advantage with the rise in independent or self-publishing is the democratisation of publishing; anyone who can write a book can now get it published. There are some very famous examples of self-published books, '50 Shades of Grey' by E.L. James being possibly the most famous, but also 'The Martian' by Andy Weir.

The description of Clays' operation up in Bungay, Norfolk, was yet another fascinating part of the presentation, and one for another column, but the 13-acre site which is capable of printing 22,000 books per hour is definitely on my list of places to visit!

And so once our work was done, we were able to enjoy some of the generous hospitality laid on by the festival directors. First a stop at Jaffé & Neale, the independent bookstore in the centre of the town which had set up a wonderful green room. There we could hang out with the other authors, though I was far too starstruck to say anything to anyone.

I was sort of hoping and equally dreading that Brian Blessed would pop by for a cup of tea. Hoping, as I am a huge fan, but dreading because I just wouldn't know what to say!

We joined a team for the ChipLitFest literary quiz. We didn't disgrace ourselves entirely, achieving mid-table mediocrity. Janet Ellis on the table next to us was clearly very motivated (and pretty vocal) and her team ran out eventual winners.

The fun didn't stop there, next it was on to the authors dinner, where we met children's fiction authors Jo Cotterill (Electricgirl), John Dougherty (Stinkbomb and Ketchup Girl) and Paul and Henrietta Stickland (Ten Terrible Dinosaurs).

I think tiredness and mild hysteria had set in by then, so we had an intensely funny evening, punctuated by MasterChef-themed drinking games, ie when anyone said 'jus' or 'deconstructed', we had to take a drink!

Before heading home on Sunday, we were pleased to be able to squeeze into an event about food blogging run by Kathy Slack, who writes a blog named Gluts & Gluttony - inspired by recipes she had developed from gluts of fruits and vegetables from her allotment and focussed on growing your own organic vegetables and what to do with the resultant produce.

This was a great hands-on session at the town's premier fine-dining restaurant, Wild Thyme.

Kathy had some very good advice

SNAP HAPPY:
Saira styles it out with a slice of cake for food bloggers, with the main themes being consistency of message, posting regularly and deciding if your blog is a photo-blog or about the writing. And if it is about the writing, edit and edit again, so you have clarity of message. Definitely a lesson I need to learn!

My favourite lesson was about long and irrelevant introductions. For example if you are blogging a restaurant review, don't waste the first 200 words talking about waiting for the babysitter or how you got to the restaurant, just get on with it. I must try to remember this! Finally, we got to practice food styling, with a rhubarb and ginger cake provided by Kathy and it was highly entertaining to watch 20 people poking, prodding and photographing their cakes rather than just tucking in.

I participate in events up and down the country, but this one was special.

As well as performing and catering for the audiences, I got so much back.

It was meticulously organised by a small army of volunteers, the variety and quality of events was excellent, and as participants we were looked after so well.

I'll definitely be going back, and for anyone with a love of books and literature, I would absolutely recommend you get yourselves there for ChipLitFest 2017.

BLOGGING BUDDIES:

Saira with Kathy Slack, who writes the popular blog Gluts & Gluttony. Inset, Saira's books.

Standing out from the supermini crowd

TESTED Mazda2 90ps SE-L

Philip Shoulder

The new Mazda2 supermini is now here, replacing the long-serving previous model, which first appeared on the scene in 2008.

This latest third-generation version incorporates Mazda's current 'KODO-Soul of Motion' design philosophy, resulting in a far more dynamic and muscular looking shape – and one that certainly stands out from the supermini crowd.

Mazda has gone against the current trend of using smaller turbo-charged petrol engines, instead plumping for larger normally-aspirated alternatives that have been designed and developed using the Japanese firm's unique SKYACTIV technology – which is claimed to offer better real-world economy and efficiency.

There's a choice of 1.5-litre, 75, 90 and 115ps petrol and 1.5-litre, 105ps diesel engines, all of which are Euro 6-compliant.

The 90ps 1.5 litre petrol engine tested here offers decent performance, although because it's normally aspirated, you do need to keep the motor on the boil. Thankfully, this isn't too much of a chore, as it's a peppy and responsive engine.

Refinement levels do suffer a bit when it's being worked hard, although things are perfectly civilised at lower speeds.

Both road holding and ride comfort are appreciably better than on the old Mazda2, with passengers being quite well isolated from road ruts and bumps. It's fun to drive, too – the precise and nicely-weighted steering combined with compact exterior dimensions give Mazda's supermini a nimble and agile feel.

A smooth drivetrain, light clutch and slick manual gearbox also make for an accomplished city companion, although rear vision is a bit hampered.

The model range consists of a five level grade structure - SE, SE-L, SE-L Nav, Sport and Sport Nav.

Available from SE-L 90ps grade, a seven-inch touch-screen combines with a rotary multimedia commander to create an enhanced human-machine interface (HMI) offering extremely safe, intuitive interactivity and infotainment control. DAB radio features for the first time in the Mazda2 and, in SE-L Nav and Sport Nav grades, a new navigation system offers greater accuracy, improved search features and three years of free map updates. Plus, occupants can always be online with MZD Connect. Mazda's in-car connectivity system works with compatible iPhone and Android smartphones.

The dashboard design is a lot cleaner and less cluttered than many other superminis. Round, Audi-style air vents certainly help out in the style stakes, too.

AT A GLANCE

- Model: Mazda2 1.5
- Price OTR: £13,995
- Top speed: 114 mph
- Maximum power: 90 ps
- Max torque: 148 Nm
- Acceleration 0-62 mph: 9.4 seconds
- CO2 g/km: 105g/km CO2
- Combined mpg: 62.8

The soft-touch materials on the dashboard feel of good quality, and the carbon fibre effect inserts on the inside of the doors adds some extra visual interest.

There's a good range of adjustment to the seat and steering wheel, including driver's seat-height adjustment on all versions, combined with a well aligned driving position.

Despite the steeply raked roofline, the cabin has an airy, spacious feel and gives front occupants plenty of headroom, along with a good array of storage cubbies.

The rear accommodation is less spacious and can't compete with rivals such as the Honda Jazz and Skoda Fabia. Boot space (280 litres seats up/950 litres seats down) is about average for the supermini class. However, the rear bench is comfortably big enough for two people – three at a squeeze.

Verdict: The new Mazda2 is a considerably more appealing package than its predecessor and deserves strong consideration from anyone in the market for a supermini. All engines are clean and frugal and SE-L trim and above offers plenty of equipment.

Conservatories

Turn your conservatory into an all year round living space

Our replacement roof solution is a traditional roof construction method for your conservatory which replaces the existing glass/acrylic roof with a bespoke insulated, timber framed, tiled roof.

This helps ensure a more comfortable room temperature in Summer whilst still enjoying the warmth a conservatory brings, and increases the temperature in Winter, enabling an enjoyable environment all year round. The new roof will also reduce glare and noise.

A Summit Conservatory Roof encourages your conservatory to become a popular area of the home, as an additional room and relaxing living space, saving you money on energy bills... and no more cleaning that glass or acrylic!

YOUR STARS WITH

ARIES MARCH 21 - APRIL 20

I can see that you feel you have been pressured into things by loved ones, but you still had the opportunity to say no instead of yes. Use this week to work out what you really want from life, as aspects suggest that your dreams are not as far away as you first thought. Compromise is your new best friend. Call now for the low down on life and love.

FOR WEEKLY AND MONTHLY READINGS CALL 0911 8532 348 65p per minute

TAURUS APRIL 21 - MAY 21

From this week, you start to look at what is possible instead of what is not. You also work out who you have been helping and who has been hindering your career. From Tuesday you make efforts to distance yourself and close the hatches to those who have been acting selfishly. New flirtations have the potential to be something special. Ring now to hear which sign I'd choose for you.

FOR WEEKLY AND MONTHLY READINGS CALL 0911 8532 349 65p per minute

GEMINI MAY 21 - JUNE 21

There is a new and more confident Gemini emerging and I can see from your stars that you no longer feel pressured to do what looks right but instead you are going to be acting and speaking from the heart. A face from the past wants something which it may not be in your best interests to give this weekend. Ring now to hear how Pluto helps you understand mixed messages.

FOR WEEKLY AND MONTHLY READINGS CALL 0911 8532 350 65p per minute

CANCER JUNE 22 - JULY 22

There is a new and better group of friends emerging in your life who can help you to get the most fun out of life. Those who have been using you will be easy to see and you start to understand why it is you acted in such a childish and arrogant fashion at the beginning of the month. In fact, you see you could not have acted any differently. Ring now to hear how Venus has the best surprises in store.

FOR WEEKLY AND MONTHLY READINGS CALL 0911 8532 351 65p per minute

LEO JULY 23 - AUGUST 23

Several disappointments joined forces to leave you feeling jaded about life but, from Monday, you start to get back on your feet and you see with clarity what needs to be done to right any wrongs. You also discover you have friends in high places as someone you thought didn't even know your name goes out of their way to help you. Ring now, I have a secret I need to share with you.

FOR WEEKLY AND MONTHLY READINGS CALL 0911 8532 352 65p per minute

VIRGO AUGUST 24 - SEPTEMBER 22

You have been led on by false promises but, from this week, you decide you will no longer be treated as a fool. You also make an important decision regarding a family member which they were not capable of making for themselves. Good news regarding tests of some sort is set to end your week on a high. Ring now to hear how Gemini link to unforgettable times this month.

Rouge make Essex history

ROUGE Returns were hailed as heroes after making history by becoming only the second Harlow team to lift the Essex Sunday Premier Cup in 20 years.

The Harlow & District League side, now within touching distance of an incredible quintet of trophies this term, defeated Ilford-based Global 3-1 at Concord Rangers FC on Sunday.

Not since Maypole in 1996 have a Harlow side won this coveted Essex trophy.

Global actually took the lead against Premier Division leaders Rouge.

But Rouge levelled when James Thomas chipped the Global keeper to make it 1-1 at half-time.

After the break, Rouge went ahead when Ricky Cook's fantastic through ball found sub Aaron Thomas and he rifled home from the edge of the box.

Danny Norton scored the third, capping a superb second half for the player.

Joint Rouge boss Peter Lucia, who had been trying to win this trophy for 20 years, said: "It's a great achievement. I think we deserved it. They [Global] ran out of steam."

"A couple of years ago we got to the semi-finals and lost and that really hurt. We wanted it more [this year] because we knew what it was like to lose."

"But this year we had the right blend and we had beaten better sides on the way. I'm so pleased for the boys."

"Now we need to try to retain the trophy [next season]."

Asked the reason behind Rouge's phenomenal success, Lucia added: "We have got good individual players but they play as a team. They are playing for each other – that's the difference."

Langley joy

LANGLEY won the Division Four Cup final in the Harlow & District League with a convincing 3-0 victory against Sheering Saints.

The deadlock was broken when Charlie Rider slotted home. Second-half goals from Carl Gregory and Lee New secured the silverware.

Sonko's happy to snub Kilmarnock

Ex-Reading ace so happy with Hawks

by Alan Scott

alan.scott@hertsessexnews.co.uk

IBRAHIMA SONKO is pleased with his decision to turn down a contract at Scottish Premier League side Kilmarnock in order to lead the Hawks to promotion.

Harlow beat AFC Hornchurch 3-1 with goals from Piers Wixon, Layne Eadie and an own goal to clinch promotion to the Ryman Premier at The Harlow Arena on Sunday.

Senegalese international centre-half Sonko, 35, has had plenty of highs during a fantastic career in professional football.

The highlight was clearly leading Reading into the Premier League for the first time ever in 2006 with a record points total of 106.

He played 127 games for the Royals.

Swansong

He has also played for the likes of Stoke, Ipswich, Portsmouth and Brentford, as well as a spell in Turkey, but has clearly enjoyed his swansong at The Harlow Arena – and proving wrong the doubters who said he was finished as he approaches his 36th birthday.

During his career the sports agency which was owned by Harlow chairman John Barnett and Hawks chief executive Tom Cunningham, have looked after him and he felt a debt to the pair.

They oversaw his key move to Reading on a Bosman deal in 2004, as well as his other moves.

He turned down a one-year deal at Killie in September to help Harlow go up.

He said: "You can compare it to getting promoted with Reading to the Premier League."

"It's not the same, but at my age when people think 'he can't play anymore at his age' but to come and show everyone 'you know what, you got it wrong'."

"It's perfect. I am very pleased and very, very happy."

Sonko said he had a tough decision to make when Kilmarnock came calling. He said: "It was important. They [Barnett, Cunningham and Danny Chapman] said 'Sonks we need you to stay because we want to get promoted'."

"What they did for me in my career, supporting me taking me to very nice places."

"Without them I would not have achieved what I have achieved. They took me to [Harlow Town]. In a way I owe them."

"When Kilmarnock came along it was a bit far for the family. At the same time I had the project here with Tom [Cunningham] and John Barnett and I thought 'you know what, I'm going to stick to it and try to get it done.'"

He added: "Every time you achieve something like that, when you get promoted, it is important. We did well. We were strong."

"We had a dip in form which probably cost us the title, but we picked up at the right time."

"We just finished beautifully. Any achievement you can do in life is an achievement, it doesn't matter what level."

Rags to riches tale for HTFC

■ From back page

Chapman has had some dark moments and some Harlow fans even wanted him out when things weren't going so well a few years ago.

He said: "I have to thank them [Barnett and Cunningham] for believing in me and sticking with me."

"Over the years there has been pressure – does it need a change [of manager]? We always knew what we wanted to achieve. We knew how we were going to go about it."

"The expectation level of the whole club went through the roof because of what we had achieved [reaching play-off semi-finals and a final]."

"I think it's now five-and-a-half or six years since I have been here and that's the fourth play-off."

"If you think about it in that respect, from when they took over the club has progressed year after year after year."

But the Hawks boss is not expecting Harlow to dominate and seal a second promotion next season – but his side won't be wallpaper or there just to make up the numbers either.

He said: "We are not looking to go up and be one of those clubs that flight relegation."

"I am not saying we are going to go up in the first year and we are going to get ourselves promoted again."

"We are now in a position where we can go and have a go at it. I have played at that level. I have never managed at that level."

"The owners have never been owners at that level, and I'm talking about finance. It's a new adventure for us all. We don't want to be a team that just mixes."

"The club wants to progress. We have got a plan in place – a five-year plan."

"We will go into it with our eyes open and adjust as we need to throughout the season."

Comment by Alan Scott

I was there the night the floodlights failed back in the last days of Carol Bothwell's sad reign as chairman back in 2009.

There was no money and you wondered if the club would be around the following season.

But then out of the blue former first team boss Tom Cunningham launched his bid to save the club from liquidation, with the help of John Barnett, now the club chairman.

There were plenty of sad times on and off the pitch even after that.

I won't forget the despair on the faces of Junior Dadson and Leon Antoine sitting in a dugout at Witham Town FC after the play-off final defeat in 2014.

Last year against Thurrock (a play-off semi-final loss), you just felt a sense of anger and frustration that Harlow had not gone up after notching 102 points and still not winning the title.

But Sunday made up for it in spades. The club gets into your blood and to hell with impartiality – I'm proud to call myself a Hawks fan.

Big things now await – and the likes of Cunningham and Barnett, plus all the hard-working volunteers and staff deserve all of it.

Witham woe, Thurrock tragedy – but heroes against Hornchurch

It's third time lucky for Hawks as they finally go up

Ryman North Play-off Final
Harlow Town 3
AFC Hornchurch 1

THERE was woe at Witham two years ago, then tragedy against Thurrock in 2015, but the Hawks finally ended their play-off misery by comfortably beating AFC Hornchurch in front of more than 1650 people at The Harlow Arena on Sunday.

Having led 2-0 and looking dominant Harlow Town conceded a cheap penalty before the break.

But Layne Eadie's piledriver from 30 yards in the second half put paid to the Urchins.

Harlow can now look forward to returning to the Ryman Premier for the first time in nearly ten years.

They had lost at Witham Town in the play-off final two years ago.

Then last year they suffered the heartbreak of going down in the play-off semi-final at home to a Thurrock side who had finished more than 20 points and three places behind the Hawks in the final table.

But there was only going to be one winner on Sunday.

Hawks boss Danny Chapman kept faith with the 11 that beat Cray Wanderers 3-0 in the play-off semi-final.

Harlow broke the deadlock on 12 minutes.

Dazzling wing play from Junior Dadson saw him cut the ball across the penalty area for Piers Wixon.

He took a touch but then bizarrely hit his shot up in the air and against the bar from five yards out but it flicked down and went into the net off the hapless Horn-church skipper Elliott Styles to spare the striker's blushes.

The Hawks doubled their lead on the half-hour mark.

Jared Small's ball from the halfway line fed Alex Read, who beat the offside trap and was through with just keeper Sam Mott to beat but intelligently played it sideways to Wixon, who tucked home into the bottom right corner.

Out of the blue, Hornchurch were awarded a harsh penalty five minutes before the break and a lifeline back into a match which Harlow appeared to be coasting.

This seemed to be awarded for a push in the box from Syrus Gordon on Tambeson Eyong.

George Purcell smashed this home emphatically to leave the game in the balance.

There was a fracas just before the break as both dugouts clashed and there were allegations of punches thrown between a Harlow fan and a member of the Urchins' coaching staff.

The game was held up for several minutes in the second half after Mott underwent treatment after being caught in the head by Dadson, attempting to score.

Brilliance

Then on 70 minutes the match was lit up by a moment of brilliance from Eadie. He picked the ball up ten yards into the Hornchurch half and, unchallenged, pushed forward 15 yards before launching a missile into the net to put the match to bed.

Hornchurch rarely threatened after that and the hosts should have added to their lead late on, but subs Ryan Melaugh and Mario Noto, before Gordon all missed gilt-edged chances.

It mattered not a jot though as Harlow can finally look forward to a new adventure after reaching the promised land of the Ryman Premier Division.

Harlow Tn: Hughes 8, Pope 8, Eadie 10, West 10, Sonko 9, Simms 9, Small 9 (Noto 9), Gordon 9, Read 8, Wixon 9 (Antoine 8), Dadson 9 (Melaugh 89). Att: 1655.

three play-off defeats in four years, his men were hungry and determined to go up this year, and he hailed them as his best ever team.

He said: "We said how many times we had been in this position – we couldn't afford to let it happen again. I said to the boys before the game I look at all the players I have had over the years and this group of players are the most focused, physically the best, mentally the best. Their ability has been the best."

"I think that showed in today's game. The biggest thing at half-time we said you can't be caught up in the game."

Harlow were coasting at 2-0 against Hornchurch when the referee gave a bizarre penalty which made it 2-1, but the hosts never looked like throwing it away and stayed in control, before Eadie's piledriver of a third goal killed it off.

Chapman said: "The referee gave a penalty that was never a penalty. Not one single player or anyone from their bench appealed for that penalty."

"Only he knows why he gave it. It was important we didn't get caught up in the referee's decision."

"We were 45 minutes away from being promoted and that's what we needed to concentrate on. In the second half, to a man we were comfortable."

"It was a hell of a finish from Layne [Eadie], I'm amazed we haven't had more interest in him than we have."

Five signed new deals before final

HAWKS boss Danny Chapman announced that five of his key players had signed new contracts even before the promoted club knew whether they were going up to the Ryman Premier.

And key striker Alex Read has signed a two-year deal.

Former Reading centre-half Ibrahim Sonko, left-back Layne Eadie, midfielder Fabian Simms and keeper David Hughes have all signed one-year contracts.

The way Read is scoring he should break Marc Salmon's goalscoring record for Harlow in two seasons. He has amassed 132 goals for Harlow and is targeting Salmon's record of 198 in 492 matches.

Chapman said: "Layne has signed for another year. Fabian signed for another year, Sonko will be here another year. Alex has signed a two-year contract. David Hughes has signed a new contract.

"We have got a good basis for next year. If you look at us every year we have had to rebuild. Next year we have a good basis we can go into. One or two areas we need to improve on but it's about having the right people.

"Anyone can get the best players ability wise but it's about having the right types of people, the right mentality of people. That's why we have gone up.

"Why would you want to go anywhere else? There were 1700 people here today. You have got the support and the facilities. And the way we play wins football matches. I don't see why anyone would want to be anywhere else."

SKY'S THE LIMIT

Harlow Town's wonderful rags to riches tale

by Alan Scott

alan.scott@hertsexnews.co.uk

HAWKS boss Danny Chapman insisted the club were not ready to go up in previous years – but knows the sky is now the limit.

Harlow Town were promoted to the Ryman Premier after winning Sunday's Ryman North play-off final 3-1 against AFC Hornchurch in front of more than 1650 fans at The Harlow Arena.

And Chapman (pictured right) immediately paid tribute to co-owners John Barnett and Tom Cunningham, who rescued the club from the brink of liquidation in 2010 and spent nearly £800,000 to make it the envy of most non-league clubs.

They paid £350,000 for a state-of-the-art 4G pitch which has given Harlow the foundation to become a commercially-viable and successful business.

Chapman explained: "This year the work that has been done at the football club – I am not talking about the team now, I'm talking about behind the scenes – the owners, John Barnett and Tom Cunningham need massive, massive credit for what they have done for this football club.

"When they came in here five years ago the club was in the best part of £400,000 worth of debt.

That's now [paid up]. They have invested even more of their own money into having the pitch laid.

"The wages are being paid. The biggest part is if you look at where the club has come from, you had three people working here on a full-time basis – there's a hell of a lot more than that now.

Grown

"It shows how the club has grown. They need to be given a massive amount of credit for that."

Having lost in the play-off final at Witham two years ago, then at home to Thurrock in the play-off semi-final last year, it looked like the Hawks were somehow jinxed and destined to remain in Ryman North.

That changed on Sunday, when Harlow sealed a fantastic 3-1 win in the play-off final.

Chapman explained: "I have had conversations with the owners. If you go back two years ago at Witham, the club probably wasn't in a position where it was ready to go up and we probably would have struggled if we had gone up.

"Last year we were in a better position [against Thurrock], then it could have gone either way."
